ABSTRACT

An attempt to meet the need for resource materials available for Adult Basic Education (ABE) personnel who work with Spanish-speaking adults is presented. The information presented was acquired by writing to commercial publishers throughout the country. Evaluations included were completed by identifying the usefulness of the curricular offerings for Spanish-speaking adults. Portions of the evaluations are designed for children and junior and senior high school students; some of these have proven useful to adults. Evaluative criteria used when the materials were assessed include: Title, Author, Publisher, Objectives, Criterion Measures, Instructional Components, Learner Prerequisite, Teacher Requirements, Reliability Effect, Cost and Time. INTRODUCTION

There has been, and is now, a need for resource materials available for Adult Basic Education personnel who work with Spanish speaking adults. This three-volume document has been prepared to meet that need.

Teachers, aides, and administrators should be able to make good use of this publication. The original curriculum documents reviewed for this publication were evaluated by qualified, objective ABE instructors who work continually with a Spanish speaking population that includes students at levels One, Two, Three and GED.

This document is likely to be controversial since there is considerable divergence of opinion between the assessments made by the teachers and the promotional literature which has, in some cases, been produced by commercial publishers.

Certainly, the reader can determine for himself the importance, effectiveness and accuracy of the evaluations in this document when he compares the source materials.

The information was acquired by writing to commercial publishers throughout the country. In turn, they gave or loaned those materials they had available for Adult Basic Education students.

The evaluations included in this publication were completed by identifying the usefulness of the curricular offerings for Spanish speaking adults.

A portion of the evaluations in this publication are designed for children and junior and senior high school students. Some of these have proven useful to adults.

The reader, in identifying and determining relevant material to meet specific needs, should give careful attention to the evaluative criteria used when the materials were assessed.

Those criteria include:

Title, Author, Publisher

Objectives

Criterion Measures

Instructional Components

Learner Prerequisite

Teacher Requirements

Comments and Evaluation

This is part of a general education curriculum designed for the Job Corp. It is attractive and well done covering the fields of Language and Communication, Social Science, Natural Science and Mathematics. Literature includes 6 books with 13 lessons dealing with feeling, character, style and interpretation. It could be a very helpful resource for G.E.D.

Comments and Evaluation

Fine supplementary material for reading improvement class. The content deals with a low-income family in an urban area and its everyday problems: the rearing of children, the job and problems of housing. Good discussion material. It gives help in meeting crises and suggestions for doing better in life. Mr. Bazan also used this and his students responded enthusiastically.

Comments and Evaluation
72 individual Pilot books are offered at each level 4-6-8. Attractive format makes this appealing, but the average student is not going to read this much, even in all the variation of fields--drama, biography, fiction, etc. Doubtful use in ABE.

Comments and Evaluation

Book defines and explains illiteracy in the United States. Helps ABE student and teacher to understand society's concern with the illiterate, and also the problems of adult learners, their feelings and intellectual processes. Contains most recent material available with newest developments in the field.

Comments and Evaluation

This evaluation must be adapted because this instrument is designed for ABE materials for students rather than teacher-training. However, this is an excellent manual for helping those who plan to teach adults get a sound philosophical approach to working with adults. It has a fine plan and format to make teachers more aware.

Comments and Evaluation

Outstanding materials designed for urban core areas where there are hard core areas of undereducated and underemployed. The five areas of emphasis are Minority History, Consumer Education, Community Problems, and Communication Skills. The format is excellent, content outstanding, and the philosophy of self-help is tremendous. This could be adapted to many urban areas for ABE.

Comments and Evaluation
These booklets, written especially for the Indian American, deal with practical, concrete, problems of buying a car, using the telephone, etc. For the most part they are done tastefully with appreciation for the Indian culture and the need for many Indians to live in two cultures. The illustrations are simple and clear, and facts are accurate. These could be used in ESL or reading improvement as a fine resource.

Buying and Caring for Your Car. K. S. Hughes. 1966.
Financing, credit, protection, safety, and care are discussed simply and well.

How to Order from a Catalog. K. S. Hughes. 1967.
A fine, simple guide to catalog ordering, discussing quality, quantity, postage, taxes and all the detail of how to order with accuracy. Excellent illustrations.

Be a Safe Driver. K. S. Hughes. 1966.
An excellent manual for safe driving with clear, simple illustrations.

Driver Education. Nina Jeffrey, 1965.
A very fine manual to help the under-educated adult drive with knowledge and safety.

How to Use the Telephone. K. S. Hughes, 1965.
A simple, clear guide on the specifics of how to use the telephone in an urban community designed for the Indian American who is not familiar with a dial phone.

A Good Home for Your Family. Nina Jeffery, 1966.
A simple guide stressing care of household equipment and the need for appropriate toilet facilities and good clean water. It does not belittle the Indian Pueblo or hogan, yet tries to give helpful hints about using a more modern house if one is acquired.

Table Manners. K. S. Hughes, 1966.
This is a simple guide to the more widely used table manners of the urban community and restaurant. It is an effort to give guidance to the Indian American who is moving into the urban community. It is a bit middle class oriented, but it in no way belittles Indian customs. In fact, it discusses eating customs in other countries.

Comments and Evaluation

A fascinating series of highly illustrated pamphlets dealing with every aspect of English. Although there might be situations where a class would profit from the chance for each student to use a copy, the biggest use is for the teacher to use these to project on an opaque machine or to make into transparencies for an overhead. The illustrations are clever with diagrammed clues for emphasis. Each pamphlet is printed in two colors for clarity of titles versus narrative. A unique resource for the teacher who wants good illustrative material.

An excellent programmed series for grammar etc. A kit includes 35 diagnostic sets, 35 mastery tests, & 6 sets of 88 cards for individual use. It could be adapted for GED review if classes were long enough (a trimester of two three hour lessons each) so half the session could be individual study and half the session review of rubs and practice of GED tests.

Comments and Evaluation
These are designed to help the "disadvantaged" youth who has been "turned off" in learning and especially in English. The format is concise and attractive and the linguistics approach is emphasized. This could be a resource for the GED English although there are books equally good designed for adults.

Comments and Evaluation

This is a full compact course in English. The intent is to start with basics and grammar and move to communication and literature. The series is done in a most attractive format and with a broad interest level. However, it is a far too concentrated approach to use with ABE students. Much too content oriented.

A fine introduction to Spanish author from Spain. It gives insight into the Spanish heritage of Western civilization -- basically 19th and 20th century writers. It is for students of comparative literature. Too advanced for ABE.

Comments and Evaluation

This is part of a general education curriculum designed for the Job Corp. It is attractive and well done covering the fields of Language and Communication, Social Science, Natural Science and mathematics. Literature includes 6 books with 13 lessons dealing with feeling, character, style and interpretation. It could be a very helpful resource for G.E.D.

For the purpose for which this is intended, it is very good. The high school graduate who is interested in civil service could use this for background and review -- fine sample tests and fairly good background. Nice format! It is hardly usable in ABE but would be good for GED grade who are preparing for jobs.

Comments and Evaluation

Fourteen chapters in basic arithmetic; however, it begins well beyond the elementary level and is designed for the older student. It could be used for basic review in G.E.D. but is cluttered and over condensed for beginning math. Usable, but far from the best. It is designed for self-study and review rather than a class. Cheap paper.

Comments and Evaluation

This is condensed and comprehensive for the more advanced math student. It could be a resource in math class, but is not for the beginner. It starts with fractions and goes to trigonometry. Designed for the student to use himself. It is quite difficult and the title "Simple" is misleading. It is hardly usable in ABE classes. Cheap paper!

			This builds on the first course with 8 booklets with the same excellent format. This series goes through equations and what is algebra and geometry--It can be used as a sequel to the first course or it may be used independently. Fine illustrations, concrete and specific. It encourages the pupil who must be absent and provides much self-help for independent study. Very fine mathematics material.

Too difficult for an average A.B.E. class. A citizenship class might get some use from it, but even then, it is not geared low enough for a beginning citizenship class. Explanations are too difficult.

Comments and Evaluation

Eighteen fascinating booklets about all the fields in social studies -- cleverly done in two colors for emphasis and clarity. These would be excellent for overhead projection, occasionally to include all the material. Excellent bibliographies are included in each field. Selective use of these for citizenship, GED, social studies, etc. Would be a great help in A.B.E., i.e., What Everyone Should Know--About World Government--About Government in the USA--About People and Nations--About Communism--About Basic Sociology--About Financial Statements--About Money and Banking--About the U.S. Market System--About Man's Economic Wants--About the Nature of Economics--About Law--About the American Economy and its Problems--About the Constitution of the USA--About World Religions--About the United Nations

Comments and Evaluation

This is an excellent condensed "American History" book that would be useful in a Citizenship class. It includes from the "Age of Discovery and Exploration" to present day history. The format is that of raising specific questions and then supplying paragraph answers. Adequate for resource material, but very condensed.

Comments and Evaluation

An excellent series of lessons designed especially for the use of the foreign born who are preparing themselves for their naturalization examinations as applicants for United States citizenship. The 30 lessons tell about the kind of government we live under, and about the Constitution upon which it is founded. Excellent format; concise.

Comments and Evaluation

A concrete pocketbook of 350 pages -- excellent glossary -- very comprehensive. It covers almost every area of science in brief review. Completion and essay tests are included after each unit (see above for listing of 13 units). Rather good illustrations. However, this would be helpful with the more advanced student and a good reader because it is compact in format and is more academically oriented. It would be a fine resource for someone teaching G.E.D. science or for the more involved student. We doubt that it could be used as a text.

Comments and Evaluation

An excellent workbook for preparing for the G.E.D. Sample tests in the G.E.D. format are included, but more important, excellent background material in every one of the five fields to be tested. Outstanding lists of terms (vocabulary) for each field as well as rules for English. This is truly a superior book -- one we would recommend completely for the G.E.D. courses.

Comments and Evaluation

An adequate series of practice tests for the G.E.D. Very helpful in giving the students experience with taking the test; however, it gives no background explanations or content in the five fields so that a teacher or other resource material is needed. Adequate format and a manual for teachers is available.

Comments and Evaluation

An outstanding book for preparation of the G.E.D. A fine discussion of reading skills and interpretation as well as the five sections for the G.E.D. Excellent background material in each field, a specialized vocabulary list for science, social science, literature, English and math with materials for analysis and practice. Very fine.
* A very fine book for preparation for the G.E.D. Excellent considering the price.

Workbooks

This series is designed for the potential dropout. Although it uses older teenagers this could be very helpful to the younger A.B.E. student who has dropped out. It is very practical, oriented to the non-academic student but with high level interest and three reading levels. Could be a fine resource in ESL for the unemployed or in reading improvement.

Authors:

- 1 - Starting Work - Fraser and Greenberger
- 2 - On the Job - Ruth Klee
- 3 - Keeping the Job - Kazmayer and Osborne
- 4 - Working for the City - Marion Snyder
- 5 - Time Out for Leisure - Elinore Beeler

Specific Reading Books:

Bakeries

Supermarkets

Gas Stations

Restaurants and Cafeterias

Truck Farming

These are much less valuable for the ABE student. They speak entirely in terms of part-time after school work.

Comments and Evaluation

This is a fine book for the review of knowledge and basic skills that are necessary for all clerical positions -- grammar, punctuation, vocabulary, spelling, arithmetic, business information, typing, shorthand, office machines, filing, etc. It has fine content nicely prepared. Could be helpful for advanced ABE student who is passing GED and wants to go into clerical work.

Comments and Evaluation

A fine book for the high school graduate or adult seeking a job.
Excellent background material and outstanding selection of application forms from Eastman Kodak, General Motors, Prudential Insurance, IBM, etc.
An excellent resource for GED people in the job market.

Comments and Evaluation

A recent and very inclusive text for health education with well-done pictures, graphs, etc. A broad selection of topics includes drugs, V.D., alcoholism, wise-consumer, plus communicable and problem diseases. The chapter on Dating and Engagement (#26) is very dated and naive about teenagers today. The title is misleading for the book is intended for grades 9-12, not young adults (ages 18-25).
